KIPLING RIGHT
MANY DEPENDENT
TORNADO TRAITS
By Arthur Brisbane

IN NEW YORK, Eugene Van Cleaf discovered the truth in Kipling's idea that the female is more deadly than the male—when you select the wrong female.

Van Cleaf was fascinated by a lady who had killed her husband with a knife, admired her in court, and almost married her, afterwards.

They lived together, having agreed to marry "a little later." The lady kept her temperament and the knife. The man worried, could not make up his mind to leave her, murdered her and killed himself.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT, of New York, will ask the legislature "to take up a practical definite study of unemployment insurance, avoiding, of course, any form of dole."

The difference between the British dole and the unemployment insurance, if the state pays for the insurance, is not a great difference.

We all depend on each other, and our sad depression will make some, especially the prosperous, realize that when the little man suffers the big man feels the pinch.

For instance, when a small man can't afford to buy his new automobile, even on the installment plan, the big owner of railroad stocks feels the pinch severely.

THE DROP IN automobile sales alone means to big railroads a loss of about $20,000,000 a month.

To be prosperous yourself, make others prosperous. To keep yourself safe and healthy in your own house, keep disease and plague out of the slums.

ENGLAND BELIEVES that the Labor and Liberal parties may unite, following a conference on unemployment between MacDonald and Lloyd George.

If the Labor party and the Tory party should make up their minds to accept Lloyd George's leadership and advice, as they did so gladly when the war frightened them, England might be better off.

The Rockefeller Foundation announces that pittacosis, or "parrot fever," resembles a mild attack of yellow fever.

Ladies with pet parrots should know that "man probably contracts the disease by way of the nose and mouth." Burying your face in the soft feathers of a parrot is dangerous. And that is true of the feathers, or fur, of any bird or animal.

BRITISH SCIENTISTS say our earth sometimes is surrounded by a ring of electricity, as Saturn is surrounded by rings.

Our occasional "ring" causes electric storms that upset cable, telegraph and radio operations and may be responsible for tornadoes.

Gang War Looms In New York

COMM E P MULROONEY • GROVER WHALEN • JACK LEGS DIAMOND

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A clash without noticeable results and the underworld has won frequent legal skirmishes with the commissioner.

The latest reports state that Al Capone is mapping out a campaign to attempt to secure monopoly on various racketeers in Gotham as he has in New York. That will mean an underworld battle to the finish between the Chicagoan and the equally famous Diamond, New York's gangland leader.

Increases have resulted in crimes while convictions have decreased greatly. Grover Whalen's "campaign" against racketeering has been supplanted by Ed Mul-rooney, a square-chinned old-fashioned cop who doesn't talk as much as his predecessors but knows the crooks and racketeers of New York by name. He knows their working methods and is acquainted with the majority of underworld associations. But even he has as yet been unable to do much about the city's crime situation.

The crooks have a long head start on him and his attempts to enforce what past officials failed to do, as were Whalen's, without result.

WHERE POLITICS IS ZESTFUL
Augusto B. Leguia, who for some 27 years has been sitting on top of a powder magazine in Peru, is in danger of losing his life. He is experiencing the usual fate of those gallant gentlemen who have the courage to play politics where it is zesty—in the Latin countries.

Señor Leguia's resignation as president of Peru was forced by a military junta which overthrew his government. The country now is in control of a new military government headed by Lieutenant-Colonel Louis M. Sanchez-Cerro, who initiated the revolutionary movement. To strengthen its hold on popular fancy presumably, the temporary government is holding the former president for trial on charges of alleged misdeeds during his reign as dictator. Señor Leguia, in other words, is the victim of a Latin mob, albeit not a violent one.

Back of it all is a great deal of history and the uncomfortable Latin way of rewarding government officials. In 1903, Señor Leguia entered politics, accepting the position of finance minister. Immediately he opened a fight with the rich old families of the country, depriving them of a tax exemption and monopolies. By so doing he sowed the seeds which now have grown into a revolution that endangers his life.

Señor Leguia's success as a government official marked him as a presidential possibility but in Peru presidents are not elected for their abilities. The wealthy families say who shall and who shall not be Señor Leguia, therefore, found it necessary to do something new. He appealed to the Indians with a proposition to create a middle class among them, and it worked. But his subsequent position as president was assailed in every possible way by his wealthy enemies and only phenomenal determination to stick enabled him to finish his term in 1912. Attempts on his life forced him to flee the country and he did not return until 1919. It was politics again then and after a bloodless coup he was elected president by the Peruvian congress. Once more possessed of power, which he was to keep for 11 years, he reopened his project to make the middle-class Indians an effective part of the productive scheme and was successful. Under his leadership cotton and sugar production was increased five-fold, the national debt per capita was made smaller than that of any other country in the world, and Peru became financially the most independent country in South America. But while developing his country's resources and working for the emancipation of the 3,000,000 Indians, Señor Leguia lost sight of some 600,000 members of the upper classes and the old families—his life-long enemies. They struck—and Señor Leguia now faces death for his trouble.

Such is the way of the world in Peru, where politics are zestful and where a politician has to flit with something more grim than defeat at the polls.

EXCITING DAYS

These are exciting days for Americans whose friends think they amount to something. First there was the mischievous James W. Gerard to hurt the feelings of a lot of people who were left off his list of 64 "rulers," and before those tears were dried out came the latest edition of that disturbing fat, red book, "Who's Who in America." Very exciting days for prominent Americans indeed.

It is all very confusing to those who aren't quite sure who "rules" the country anyway, but it does seem that the 29,704 names in "Who's Who" plus the 14 names on Mr. Gerard's list not included in the official roster of eminent Americans ought to give just about everyone who would be missed very much a chance to get into print. But of course, that isn't the way the editorial staff of "Who's Who" picks material. It isn't the folks who would be missed so much as it is the folks who never have missed much that it includes.

Despite Mr. Gerard's recent admission that he wrote his disturbing list in 15 minutes and that he never did regard the men included as America's sole rulers, but only people who would be most useful in building up an industrial empire, it might make a good argument to point out that not one of his choices is among the 35 famous Americans in the order of space allotted them in "Who's Who." That list, the cream of the lot, is composed of engineers, scholars, poets, surgeons, educators, diplomats, authors, lawyers, journalists, clergymen—and one manufacturer. The fact that book titles consume space rapidly is responsible in a large part for the prominence of the exclusive 35, however. "Who's Who" outdoes itself in hospitality toward literary, scientific, theological and academic notables, but is hard on merchant princes and industrialists.

Ohio and New Jersey nestle together in seventh and eighth places, respectively in state contributions to the "Who's Who" list. Ohio has 1,489 persons listed; New Jersey 1,612. In sixth place is the District of Columbia with 1,489 residents listed. New York is first with 5,811.

It's good to have it all settled, to have the suspense taken away and know who is worthwhile and who is just one of us. It probably won't make much difference though in the way of the world—maybe none at all except that a group of women numbering something less than 29,704 will be very well pleased indeed. They are the wives of the "great."

"Uncle Jim" Webster down in North Carolina, has carried a silver dollar in his mouth for 67 years. Uncle Jim believes it preserves his good luck. Maybe so—keeping it from going down his throat ought to take up so much time that he couldn't find any bad luck.

As a matter of fact, when a congressman travels back home to strengthen his political fences it isn't to make the edge of his property but just to make a place for him to sit—or should be say straddle?

It really so that they call an employment agency a bureau because it's so hard to find what you want?

It's a mighty good thing that Zara Agha, the aged Turk, happened along when he did. The Scotch story craze was on its last legs anyway.

The experts keep telling us that we could make business get better by spending all our money. Well, why doesn't business get better?

"You see it was this way, your honor. He was reading funny jokes and I kept tellin' him I had cracked lips, so I ups and knocks him one."

What Others Say

THE REALLY BIG QUESTION

While League of Nations propaganda proceeds, while time is trifled away by the representatives of the nations in peace and disarmament gestures, while Russia raves and ruins, the Pan-American union gathers momentum and strength. Such union will be independent of all the world. Self-sufficient and non-aggressive, it is destined to be also the earth's greatest conservator of peace, because it can compel peace. Before the potential significance of such a union, the insincere and selfish proposals of alien nations to do this or that under treaty stipulations grow flaccid and pale.

This year will mark the convening of the one hundredth important meeting of the republics of the American continent in international conference—the Inter-American conference on agriculture, forestry and animal industry to be held in Washington early in September.

One hundred years of effort find climax here. The event is historic. It signifies glorious things for the future welfare of the nations of the Western hemisphere. Of particular interest is the fact that this conference will be the first pan-American assembly that has devoted itself exclusively to the study on a broad scale of the problems of agriculture as they exist in the Americas—the basic problems of any structure of government. The importance of this meeting is of greater moment than any heretofore ever held by the nations of North and South America. Out of it well may come immeasurable good for the Western hemisphere.

The Treatment

The effect of this process is the production of a swelling of the limb or part involved. Pain and tenderness are noted. The inflamed vein feels hard and knotted to the touch. It seems almost like a piece of rope. When it is deep-seated it is impossible to detect inflammation of a vein.

At times the clot which forms in the vein may become infected. Pus forms, and if the vein is entirely stopped up by an abscess may form and discharge. Then the trouble is over. But if the pus gets into the blood stream it is carried throughout the body, producing a general blood poisoning, which is dangerous.

The causes of phlebitis are many. It may follow an injury or an operation. Following childbirth there may be some trouble of the veins. Influenza and typhoid fever sometimes have phlebitis as a complication.

Treatment depends on the cause and the size of the vein involved. It is important to protect the part from movement and injury. In a week or two the clot is absorbed and all is well.

If the trouble is in the leg the limb should be elevated a few inches above the body position and the patient kept quiet. After the fever and acute symptoms have disappeared gentle massage may be had. Later on an elastic bandage can be used.

In the case of phlebitis where pus forms an operation is required. Every case should have the attention of a physician.

MANSFIELD, Aug. 30.—Losing his balance in trying to climb down the side of a 4,000,000 gallon water tank at the city reservoir, Frank Vrabel, seven, was drowned yesterday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Nothing is quite so impressive to me as office workers geared to modern push button efficiency. In contrast to my own harem scarem method of handling my job, they are quicksilver moving about on smooth glass.

Small wonder I don't get anywhere.

Recently I decided to restore order out of chaos by installing high-powered office equipment in a room of my apartment—a ponderous desk, swivel chair, hand set telephone, a reference library at my elbow and push button humidifiers. In my conceit it was to be a "study."

I even thought up a sign for my door—"The master is Thinking"—to keep Mickey Neillans and the like away. In a few weeks it has become as exclusive as the Grand Central waiting room. This morning two minutes spent an hour holding my best cane at arm's length to jump through.

Only yesterday an editor whom I desire to impress dropped in unannounced. At the moment I was on my back on the floor with legs in the air trying to balance a frightened puppy on soles of my house slippers like an acrobat did at the Palace the other week.

The visitor discussed inconsequentials, coughed politely behind his hand and departed somewhat in confusion. I wouldn't click with him anyway. Gazing up at him from the floor I noticed he wore both suspenders and a belt. Any one that precise would cry over split infinitives.

In other offices visitors telephone for an appointment. Even then they have to cool heels awhile in an outer office. But when they visit me they are likely—in fact they have—to come on in the bathroom when I am in the midst of a shower.

What I lack is dignity. Many people have an idea this racket is some sort of clowning. They expect me to leap from my desk, touch them, cry: "You're it!" and go whooping through the house. Or swing from a chandelier by my toes. You'd twitch, too.

A cultural touch in my "study" is a huge revolving globe of the world. I don't need it, but Floyd Gibbons has one. It hadn't been installed a week before the gang gathered afternoons to spin it and lay bets it would come up Africa, India or where not. You heard shouts of "Come on Jugo-Slavia!" or "Two bits on Norway to show!" Hunch over a typewriter and try to please an exacting public with that going on. And see if you don't get the jitters.

Once I got my dander up and decided to stop foolishness during working hours. "See here, fellows," I declared with a look as cool as a pawn-broker's heart, if any. "This is the real all-round performance is like, just take Oldsmobile's wheel and put the car through its paces.

Try it out on roads of your own choice... in traffic, on the highway, where the going is hard.

Whatever the test of performance, you'll discover that Oldsmobile's big, powerful engine is thoroughly competent. Always smooth, always responsive, always with something more in reserve, it adds immeasurably to motoring pleasure.

is where I have to work and this monkey business has got to stop!" Then cuttingly and with a glare, "I have to earn a living." It looked as though I won a victory. They neared off, a little shame-faced, one at a time. But in a half hour they came parading through the room wearing my wife's hats and to the tune "The Farmer Rings the Bell," sang: "He has to earn a living." And must have perfect quiet!" That gives you a sketchy idea of what I am up against.

There is nothing to do with such necks except shriek for a cop or slam the door bell now buzzing like this—zip de zip zip-zip!

Maybe leaving off spots or brushing my hair differently would inspire a little respect. I've got to do something or take up another trade. They are driving me nuts.

But everything is going to be all right in the Autumn!

stresses affairs artistic, social, domestic and romantic, although business may be expected to run along in accustomed grooves. There is hint of minor changes or journeys, but these may be auxiliary to the development of the aforesaid personal activities. The mental attitude may be uplifted and aspiring, with a leaning toward poetry, music and mysticism.

Those whose birthday it is may lock for a year in which the domestic, affectional, social and artistic activities may be uppermost in the attention.

In this connection there may be change or travel, although business is under fairly safe auspices. The trend of mind may however be to the cultural, utopian or mystical rather than the solidly practical.

A child born on this day should be kindly, lovable, popular in its personal life, leaning toward the higher and finer expression of art, music, literature and mysticism.

DRUNKENNESS ON INCREASE, COAST OFFICIAL SHOWS

San Francisco Records Show Heavy Gain In Intoxication

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Aug. 30.—Whoopie-makers are on the increase.

One bootleg liquor is acquiring more "kick."

For records of the San Francisco police department show that arrests for drunkenness increased approximately 8 per cent during the last fiscal year.

The ratio of women "drunks" particularly showed a gain. An average of four a day "sobered up" in the dormitory of the city prison, the records show.

All told 14,468 persons, including a generous sprinkling of young boys and girls, were booked at the prison as inebriates. The figure for the year previous was 13,402 and for 1926, 11,472.

A vast majority of the offenders escaped the ignominy of court appearance, there being a precedent in the police department which gives to every individual the right to one "spree" without fine or a prison sentence.

"The average arrest for drunkenness," explained Police Chief William J. Quinn, "is made more with the idea of protecting society from possible harm than for the purpose of punishing the culprit."

"Experience shows that stiff fines are not a deterrent to excessive drinking, and that they only work hardships on many individuals who normally are good, law-abiding citizens. With the habitual drunkard, however, harsh treatment is oftentimes necessary."

As compared to the figures on drunkenness, a total of 2,529 arrests were made during the year for violations of the state and national prohibition laws. Twelve persons were arrested for illegal operation of stills.

FARMERS ENTER SPEECH AFFAIR

Eastern Exposition To Feature Contest On September 16

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 30.—A public speaking contest for members of the Future Farmers of America will be held here at the Eastern State Exposition, Sept. 16, in which 13 boys representing as many different states in the North Atlantic region will compete.

The regional winner will take part in the national championships to be held in Kansas City in November through the generosity of Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas.

Three contestants in this regional competition have been selected. They are Robert Miller of LaRue, Ohio, Edward F. Richard of Mason City, Va., and Woodrow Wills of Thurmont, Md. Other states will select their delegate in the near future.

The future Farmers of America is a national organization of boys having approximately 2,000 local chapters with a membership of 40,000. The object of the organization is principally to promote vocational education in agriculture in public schools.

Put your family in the car and start at right angles to the tornado. Do not run away ahead of it. It never turns to right or left and is not very wide. That is all you need to know.

In the early '80's, when Colonel Coates, running through his Kansas City hotel, "The Coates House," warned all his guests to take to the cyclone cellar, the beautiful and brave Miss Cora Baker of St. Louis observed that the yellow cyclone funnel had climbed the steep river bank above the hotel. She chartered a two-horse hack with a young man from the east, and drove after the cyclone, observing its effects, cutting houses in two, lifting sidewalks, etc. etc. It did not come back and paid no attention to her, which is more than you could say of any man in Kansas City or St. Louis.

FRANCE HAS ON HAND a war that all will approve. Armed cutters of the French navy are fighting giant fish, "belugas," or dolphins, that eat millions of good fish and destroy gear of fishermen along the coast of Brittany.

Protected by slippery, hard skin, and thick fat, they are hard to kill and continue their murderous work.

Suppose that in a city of five million inhabitants there lived a few giants eating smaller citizens, each giant devouring thousands every day. Such is life in the ocean.

The marvel is that any fish survive. The number of eggs in a shad roe explain it.

A pair of shad in a few years, if all the young survived and raised families, would make the Atlantic and Pacific solid shad banks.

SHOTS FIRED IN POLITICAL TILT

Buenos Aires Scene Of Disorders As Many Cheer President

Buenos Aires, Aug. 30.—Demonstrations by adherents of President Yrigoyen in the streets of the capital provoked fighting and intermittent firing with rival factions last night. Two persons, one of them a big official, were wounded in two separate clashes.

Yrigoyen, who appeared yesterday at the request of presiding Judge David Jenkins, testified his part in the negotiations was passive but that he believed the merger was completed too hastily. Mather said he supported the pleas for delay made by Cyrus S. Eaton, leader of the merger opposition, at the two meetings in Cleveland March 7 and 11 when the financiers who arranged the deal gathered for discussions.

Eaton should have been given more time to study the proposition, Mather said.

MERGER DEALING WAS TOO QUICK

Witness Tells Of Lack Of Time To Study Combination

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 30.—With the first account of William G. Mather, Cleveland steel and ore captain, of his views on the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem steel merger in the records, the hearing on the suit to halt the deal today was in adjournment over the weekend and holiday.

The hearing will be resumed Tuesday when George O. May, of New York, senior partner in the auditing firm of Price, Waterhouse and Company, is scheduled to resume the stand.

May, a defense witness, was called this week to support the much-disputed audit of his firm upon which the merger terms of four shares of Bethlehem for three of Sheet and Tube were negotiated. Those opposed to the deal had attacked the audit as unfair to the Youngstown company.

Mather, who appeared yesterday at the request of presiding Judge David Jenkins, testified his part in the negotiations was passive but that he believed the merger was completed too hastily. Mather said he supported the pleas for delay made by Cyrus S. Eaton, leader of the merger opposition, at the two meetings in Cleveland March 7 and 11 when the financiers who arranged the deal gathered for discussions.

CELEBRATION IS SCHEDULED IN ATLANTA; 5,000 TO PARTICIPATE

ATLANTA, GA., Aug. 30.—When 5,000 or more veterans of the 82nd or "All-American" division of the A. E. F. gather here Sept. 26 to 28 for their first camp reunion at Camp Gordon where they were trained 12 years ago, they will meet a hero who wasn't a hero at all when they knew him, but just a plain sergeant from the East Tennessee mountains.

He is Sergeant Alvin York, who killed and captured a whole German machine gun company by virtue of the crack shooting he had learned while hunting squirrels in his native hills.

He was one of the bits of raw material converted into a soldier at Camp Gordon, but not until after the Armistice, when the division had been scattered, did more than a few of his comrades know that Sergeant York had been singled out as the outstanding hero of the World War.

Atlanta veterans of the 82nd are in charge of preparations for the reunion, to be held on the anniversary of the opening of the great Argonne Forest offensive, in which thousands of its officers and men were killed or wounded. Citizens have raised an ample fund for their entertainment, and the program includes the biggest "barbecue" ever held in Georgia, on the old camp-ground at Camp Gordon, near the city.

The "All-American" division was a veritable "melting pot" of humanity. Its soldiers were assembled from every state in the Union, and included many of foreign birth or descent who learned the English language in the cantonment schools. Since the Armistice they have scattered all over the United States, but the 82nd division association of Atlanta, in charge of reunion plans, is making every effort to reach them with invitations.

RUM RUNNERS SLAY DEPUTY WOUND OTHERS

Two Men, One With Shot Wounds, Held After Investigation

ALTUS, OKLA., Aug. 30—Posse continued a search today for alleged rum runners who last night shot and killed Elmer L. Carter, 32, a deputy sheriff, and seriously wounded Joe Whitt, Altus policeman, when they attempted to halt their truck, believed to contain a shipment of liquor for Borger, Texas.

The youths, who later identified themselves as Sam and Herbert Krause of New York and Philip Land of Los Angeles explained that the money he made from magazine subscriptions all went into tuition fees and such at Northwestern.

"Well, isn't that fine," returned Dr. Scott. "I happen to be president of that institution. I don't remember seeing any of you boys around. What's your college?" What work are you majoring in?"

But the three had disappeared around the corner. Dr. Scott notified police and the youths were taken to the police station. After a lecture on the ethics of sales representation, the boys were released on their promise to leave Evanston.

Two brothers, Buster and Bernie Robertson, were held at Frederick, southwest of here, for investigation in connection with the shooting. Buster was suffering from two bullet wounds he had refused to explain.

The Robertsons were arrested at their home near Frederick a short time after the shooting by officers who were searching for the slayers of Carter.

Whitt, shot in the head, was semi-conscious, but hospital attendants said he had a chance to recover.

Informed by officers at Frederick that a liquor truck was in the Altus territory, Carter asked Whitt to accompany him. On a country road four miles southwest of here they ran into the truck which was accompanied by a fast coupe acting as a convoy.

Allowing the coupe, in which two men were riding to pass, the officers attempted to halt the truck. Their commands were met with a volley of rifle fire. Both officers returned the fire, but the truck and coupe continued.

Whitt, unconscious, slumped to the ground. Carter crawled to the farm home nearly a quarter of a mile away, called for help and died.

SALEM HARDWARE TO MEET MULLINS IN POST-SEASON SERIES

THE DAY In Sports

SERIES FIZZLES OUT

Friday evening marked a period which might well be set aside for the sad passing of the mushball series between the two teams alleged to have involved Salem's leading softball talent. The series proved a fizzy, why none can tell, but the games just failed to click with fandom.

Perhaps the big reason was that spectators wanted to see mushball played in a sensational manner that it has most of the season. Everytime a member of either team made an error, hoots galore permeated the clear atmosphere and the crowd went more to razz than to cheer.

So this event will pass on and will be replaced by another competition next week. The Salem Hardware has accepted the defy hurled by the Mullins aggregation and these teams will clash for three games, if necessary.

Pat Caraway, 23-year-old Chicago White Sox pitcher entered baseball's hall of fame with the season's greatest hurling performance. He held the hard hitting Cleveland Indians to three hits for 13 innings, issued only two passes during the contest and won his own ball game with a vicious double to the screen in the final frame. The White Sox won 3-0.

It was a great ball game even to listen to. "Whoopie" Tom Manning sent it to Salem listeners via WTAM.

The Salem High football camp will open at Dunn Eden lake Monday.

Challenge Sent Out By Body-Makers Accepted By Champion Combine

Another big mushball series will be the attraction at Centennial park for three days next week when the championship Salem Hardware corporation softball team meets the Mullins Manufacturing corporation softballers in the season's most interesting competition.

The Hardware looked strong in winning the championship and the Mullins team, despite the fact that it lost to the Kiwanis club, is rated high in city softball circles.

Mullins Beats Hardware

The body-makers defeated the Hardware easily in the second game between the two teams and finished in second place. The setback sustained in the Kiwanis club battle was its only defeat in 11 games but it was enough to eliminate the Mullins from the championship running.

Convinced that his team is equally as strong as the champs, Myers issued the defy earlier in the week but the Mullins accepted only after the all-star clash Thursday night.

As a result of this series being scheduled, the remaining five games between the league all-star aggregations are called off. Nobody appears to care much for them anyhow.

Ohio Blind Couple Happy In Affliction

LIMA, PERU, Aug. 30—Augusto Legua, 67-year-old deposed president of Peru, taken from his sickbed aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau, was placed today in a prison cell on San Lorenzo Isle, Callao harbor, to await trial and punishment for the "misdeeds" of his dictatorship.

His son, Juan Legua, also has been arrested, and was taken to the same prison, which is the same in which Sr. Legua, while president, confined most of his political enemies. Both were placed under strong guard.

Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, new military president of the republic, said that severe punishment was contemplated for the former president and others adjudged by the military junta he heads of having misused the nation's finances.

Sanchez also said that Harold B. Grow, American naval reserve officer who has been in charge of the Peruvian air force, would be prosecuted by court martial for his support of Sr. Legua.

Two-headed trout lives 16 months

MT. SHASTA CITY, CAL—A two-headed Loch Leven trout, now 16 months old, is one of the most interesting freaks at the world's largest fish hatchery here.

The freak feeds by both heads, but its actions are guided by the right head. For many months both heads grew about the same, but lately the right head is increasing in size. Attendants believe that the fish will die when the weak head no longer is able to serve the body.

Two-headed trout are not uncommon, as are other freaks among the millions of fish spawned here, but Capt. H. G. Lambson, superintendent of the hatchery, says that this is the first time in his experience that such a freak has lived more than 45 days.

Preparations for the forthcoming football season are being made at State College, Pa., where the hopes of 1930 are taking practice. Pictured above are, (left to right) Earl Edwards, Mike Kaplan, who will handle one of the flank assignments, Frank Driedrich of Woodbury, N. J., will be captain and star halfback. (Lower) Cooper French, quarterback for the past two seasons, will call the signals again this year.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

"Come out with us—we're off on 'erly only at certain windows, all need labeling. And, of course, if preserving and canning are done in the home ample labels are essential. Commercial labels cost so little that it pays to keep a liberal supply on hand. Also a roll of narrow gummed paper, useful when odd lengths are needed, such as for boxes, screen doors, drawers.

Placing narrow labels on the top edge of bureau drawers is a help in establishing orderly habit in the youngsters. If not old enough to read, they can be taught by means of varying colors in the labels, to remember what articles of clothing are supposed to go in each part of the chest of drawers.

COLUMBIANA

Mrs. John Barrow, Mrs. Ruth Lehman and daughter, Betty, Mrs. Caroline Shaeffer and Mrs. R. E. Brangard and daughter, Peggy Wednesday were guests at dinner of Mr. L. A. Schaeffer, Sharon, Pa. Honoring her daughter, Mrs. B. M. Hall of McComb, Mrs. C. W. Griswold, entertained with three tables of bridge Wednesday evening at her home North Main street. A dainty lunch was served following the games.

The results of the Wednesday golf tournament at Ry-Roll Chalet ended in the following victories: Men's, Emery Metz; Ladies', Miss Mary Hollenshead; Junior, Owen Johnson.

The Orange and Yellow Ray division of the Ladies' Aid society of Grace Reformed church were entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Paul Price, Woodland ave., with about 15 members present. Mrs. Charles Bush, Alliance, was a guest. A lunch was served following the business session.

Class in Meeting

The Mary-Martha class of the Lutheran Sunday school met Friday at the home of Mrs. Harry Eberman, Fairfield road. A covered dish dinner was served at noon.

Mrs. W. R. Simpson and daughters, Helen and Carol have been spending this week at Cochocton, with the former's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Hoover.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jackson and daughter, Anna Jean, have returned to Holland, Mich., after a week's visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McLaughlin, Jr., east of town.

Alfred Ferguson and James Sitter, have been attending the Ohio state fair the past week, and also visited Dayton and the Ohio Caverns.

The inflexible housekeeper who did all her week's baking on a Saturday, regardless of weather or temper, isn't nearly so amiable as the lady who adjusts her big jobs to the weather, and revels in the relief of pie and cake-making on days that are gloomy outdoors.

Business Tags and Labels

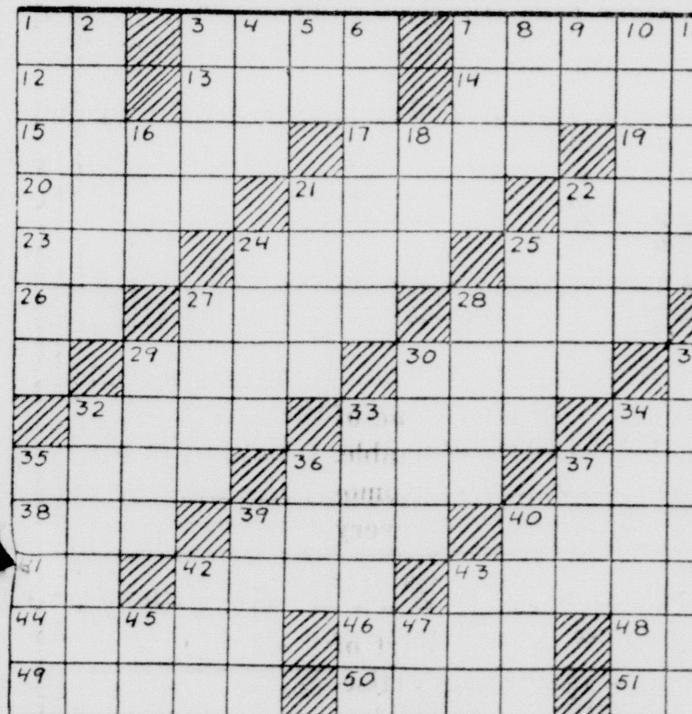

Generous labeling throughout the home will save a lot of time and ruffled tempers. For nothing is lost when everyone has the labeling habit and mistakes more or less serious don't happen.

Most important is the habit of keeping large legible labels on all cleaning fluids, powders, pastes, etc., that may be poisonous. The law requires that such articles must be plainly marked when sold and the safest thing is to keep dangerous items out of reach of small persons. And if the printed label of manufacture isn't conspicuous enough in its warning, slap on another red label.

But it's in the storing of articles that labels can be of great help to the busy housekeeper. Objects that are packed away between seasons if plastered with big labels bearing description of contents will make it easy to lay hands on exactly what's wanted when the time arrives for using them again. Screen doors and windows of varying sizes labeled with their proper placing, curtains that may vary in size yet fit prop-

MOVIES AT THE STATE

William Powell is starred in "Shadows of the Law" which is the feature at the State next Monday.

Fear of Hollywood's latest talking successes are scheduled by Manager C. V. Rakstraw for the coming week at the Grand and State theaters. The attractions bring such outstanding players as Claudette Colbert, William Powell, Nancy Carroll, Maurice Chevalier and Charles Rogers.

Powell is starred in his latest talking pictures, that entitled "Shadow of the Law," a drama of prison life with exciting adventure and romance which is previewed as being an even greater production than his "Canary Murder Mystery."

New Leading Lady

Natalie Moorhead, a newcomer to the talkies, is cast opposite Powell. The picture is at the State three days starting Labor day afternoon. Another star brings with him greatest picture, "Safety in Numbers." He is Charles Rogers, the versatile musician and songster who sings, plays the trombone, drums and dances in the picture. Kathryn Crawford, Josephine Dunn and Carol Lombard form part of the supporting cast.

"The Devil's Holiday" is re-billed Nancy Carroll's contribution to the week's schedule. She is pictured as a hard boiled man-hating maniac in a big western hotel, building up a fortune through shady side deals in farm machinery. She works her avocation by dating up prospects, leads them on and then springs the trap. It works well until the picture's Romeo ventures on the scene.

Romeo in this case is Phillips Holm's white Hobart Bosworth is the hard-hearted papa.

"Big Pond" Returns

"The Big Pond" as shown to Salem audiences in the chautauqua tent here some time ago, didn't click extraordinarily well. The picture is reported to be a great improvement on the actual stage play and stars Miss Colbert and Chevalier, whose name by the way, isn't "shiv-a-her" but "shay-al-ya."

The play is identical with that of the play but Chevalier's portrayal of Pierre Mirande, the leading player, is said to be a great improvement of the original. Chevalier sings several songs.

It is an all-Paramount week at the theaters, each of the four pictures being produced by that company.

Edmund Lowe is seen for the last time in his gangster portrayal of Louis Boretti in "Born Reckless" at the State tonight. At the Grand is the Buster Keaton, Robert Montgomery and Anita Page feature, "Free and Easy."

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30 -- Full capacity operations will be started at once by the Sherwin Williams Paint company. It was announced yesterday. The plants have been running only at 40 to 60 per cent capacity.
